

Procedures for Filing the Income Tax Return

Hall Income tax notice

Tax year January 1, 2001 – December 31, 2001, is the last tax year in which the Department of Revenue will routinely mail income tax return forms to taxpayers registered for payment of the Hall income tax. On this year's return, which is enclosed with this important notice, there is a block which taxpayer may check if they wish to continue to receive the income tax return forms in the mail for succeeding tax years.

Effective in March 2002, there will be an additional filing option available to Hall income tax filers. This new option will be e-filing the tax return through an Internet application available on the State of Tennessee's Web site at www.Tennessee.gov. This application will post accepted filing information directly to the department's Revenue Integrated Tax System and will provide an ACH payment option. By being able to differentiate between returns filed on Department of Revenue forms and those filed through the software application, the department will be able to evaluate the potential for additional e-file options for other tax returns.

As with paper returns, the deadline for e-filed returns is April 15, 2002. In addition, as with paper returns, a provision for filing applications for extension is available through the e-file option.

The Department of Revenue encourages taxpayers to investigate the e-file option. We believe this is a major step toward our goal of providing improved delivery of governmental services to our taxpayers on a 24/7 basis.

For updated information on the e-filing process, please visit our Web site at www.Tennessee.gov/revenue.

Have questions or comments? Please let us know. Contact us.

Publication Date: November 2001